Budget-Cutting Given Priority By President

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson gave budget-cutting top priority today as he settled down at the LBJ Ranch for the Christmas holidays. He planned to discuss spending with his budget director and three Cabinet officers.

Press secretary George E. Reedy described Johnson as determined to reduce spending requests "as prudently as he can, and as far as he can within the limits of efficiency and effectiveness."

Many administration officials in Washington are predicting that by New Year's Day, Johnson will have whacked federal spending proposals below $100 billion for the year starting July 1, 1965. He has said this will be difficult, but he did it last year after making some negative forecasts.

LBJ's Health Is 'Excellent'

Heart Specialist Makes Examination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is in fine shape to weather the next four strenuous and demanding years in the White House his cardiologist said today.

Indeed, Dr. John Willis Hurst — who has been keeping regular tabs on the President's heart ever since his severe coronary attack in 1955 — indicated Johnson may even have an edge or many other men of his 56 years in coping with the physical and emotional stresses of life.

Dr. Hurst discounted any thought that the President, since taking office, has been maintaining a possibly dangerous "frantic" pace, as at least one doctor not associated with his case was put it.

Dr. Hurst, professor and chairman of the Department of Medicine, Emory University School of Medicine, Atlanta, Ga., made the statements in a telephone interview.

He thus became the second physician among the President's team of doctors to give an up-to-date — and highly optimistic — appraisal of the chief executive's health as he approaches his inauguration.

Earlier in the weekend, Dr. James W. Cain of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., pronounced the President in "excellent health. There is no health reason why he should not continue an active, vigorous life for many years."

57 Miners Killed In Peru Explosion

LIMA, Peru (AP) — An explosion in a U.S.-operated coal mine in central Peru Sunday killed 57 miners and injured two others.

Reports from the mine, near Cerro de Pasco 125 miles north-east of Lima, said gas and coal dust exploded. The mine's output is used to make coke for copper, gold and silver mining operations at Cerro de Pasco.

It is operated by the U.S.-owned Cerro de Pasco Corp.

While rescuers dug for bodies, officials of the government and the mining company tried to determine the cause of the accident.

Ohio Collegians Help Build Negro Church

RIPLEY, Miss. (AP) — On the muddy ruins of a Negro church at the edge of a cotton field, white college students from the North joined today with Negroes from Mississippi to rebuild a house of worship — a monument to their belief in brotherhood.

The college students and professors, who call themselves "Carpenters for Christmas," arrived Sunday from Oberlin College in Oberlin, Ohio. There were 26 in the first group; 6 more were expected today.

They traveled nearly 800 miles, the final lap over muddy, treacherous red clay roads to the desolate place where Antioch Baptist Church had stood.

The frame building burned last Oct. 30 within hours after it was used for a civil rights meeting.

"We can start laying brick by Tuesday and start the framing Wednesday," said Burrell L. Scott, 40, a mason contractor from Cleveland, Ohio.

Scott, a Negro, flew to Memphis — about 70 miles to the northwest — and then drove to the church site, which is about 10 miles from Ripley.

The Oberlin group plans to work through the holidays.

"We have to be back in class Jan. 4," said dark-haired Marcia Aronoff, 20, Oberlin senior and spokeswoman for the group.

She is co-chairman of the Oberlin Action for Civil Rights organization. A sociology major, she is from Middletown, Ohio.

Attired in mud-smeared black boots, faded blue jeans and a red coat, she dug at the clay with a pick. She and the other students — and two professors — ignored a biting wind, near freezing temperatures and the mud.

The sky was overcast. A clump of red oaks stood forlornly behind the church site. Several old church pews, blackened by the weather, had been arranged around a fire of scrap lumber and the students warmed themselves.

Marcia Aronoff was asked why the group chose this church to rebuild.

"We sent some students down here to work with the Freedom Democratic party right before the election," she said. "There were 21 who came during a two-week period. Some of them were here at the rally the night the church burned."

The group hopes to have walls and a roof up by the end of the Christmas holidays. To help finance the project, the entire student body of 1,300 at Oberlin donated Friday's lunch money.

Church meetings in Ohio and sale of Christmas cards helped raise funds.

Among the muddy workers were Dr. Paul Schmidt, head of the Oberlin philosophy department, and his wife Gail — who suggested the project.

BERLIN BARRIERS RAISED — This crossing point at the Oberbaum Bridge was one of many by which West Berliners entered East Berlin for Christmas.

South Viet Nam Jolted By Another Military Coup

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The future of South Viet Nam's government and the war against the Viet Cong have been thrown into doubt by a weekend political purge by young Vietnamese generals.

The "Young Turks" dissolved the High National Council and arrested most of its nine members, plus more than 20 other leading politicians.

U.S. military and diplomatic officers made no official statement on the crisis — the country's sixth government upheaval in less than 14 months — but American displeasure was evident.

"This power play did not seem called for," said one U.S. official, "and basically we have to regard these generals as rebels against the duly constituted government."

Premier Tran Van Huong and Chief of State Phan Khanh Suu were still nominally in power. In a broadcast proclamation, the junta of young generals declared confidence in and support for both men.

U.S. officials said the latest assertion of over-all authority by the military badly damaged the civilian government's position.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, commander of the 1st Army Corps, is the dominant member of the junta. He escaped to Cambodia in 1960 after failing in an attempt to overthrow the Ngo Dinh Diem government. Since Diem's death he has risen rapidly in the Vietnamese army.

Explorer 26 Is Placed Into Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Explorer 26 satellite soared into orbit today to measure space radiation and the threat it poses to men and machinery flying deep into space.

The 101-pound windmill-shaped satellite shot aloft from Cape Kennedy at 4 a. m. aboard a towering Delta rocket which blazed brilliantly into the pre-dawn darkness.

The flight-control center announced an hour later that tracking information indicated all three stages of the booster had fired with precision and drilled the payload into space.

The newest in a long line of Explorer satellites is to carry on work started by its predecessors in probing basic scientific mysteries of space.

The Explorer experiments were designed to provide the most extensive information yet on how high-energy radiation particles become trapped in the earth's magnetic field to form the Van Allen belt and the danger the belt poses to men and machinery flying future flights deep into space.

Boy, 7, Learning To Drive, Kills Father and Sister

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Seven-year-old David Brooks, learning how to drive the new family car, apparently confused the brakes with the accelerator.

His proud father, Robert Brooks, 32, was standing nearby with sister Deborah, 8, begging her turn at the wheel.

The car slowed, said detective Sgt. Robert Frost, "and Brooks told the boy to put on the brakes. He apparently missed."

Across the parking lot at Hialeah race course, Mrs. Brooks, angry that her husband was letting David drive, was walking home with two younger children.

She turned as the car shot forward. Brooks was killed instantly. Debbie died in surgery.

Winter Opens On Foul Note

Fresh Snow, Rain Sting Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fresh snow, rain and plummeting temperatures stung the Northeast and Northwest today as winter made its official debut.

At least 25 deaths were attributed to violent storms that followed a coast-to-coast cold wave.

Although the South and many of the middle states are experiencing a warming trend, the northern corners of the nation had no relief.

With 8 inches of new snow today, portions of the Montana-North Dakota area were still digging out from the storms in an effort to save thousands of stranded cattle and sheep.

Hundreds of cattle suffocated as ice formed on their nostrils and mouths, North Dakota Gov. William Guy called a meeting with Civil Defense, National Guard and highway department officials to determine what can be done to help the snowed-in ranchers.

"I've never seen a storm like that one," said one North Dakota rancher. Some portions of the state were declared disaster areas.

Lightning, thunder, hail, snow and gusty winds struck sections of Montana as cold arctic air met with warmer Pacific air.

Lightning knocked the face from a clock in a Helena valley home.

Most of the state and federal highways were open to traffic but back roads were snowed in. Some officials said it would take weeks to open the country routes.

The Air Force planned to air lift five tons of hay to stranded cattle and sheep.

In the Northwest, mixed rain and snow caused hazardous driving conditions in Washington, where three persons died in traffic accidents. Two boys were killed in sledding mishaps near Seattle.

On the East Coast, central and southern New England were struck by four inches of snow as temperatures dropped to near zero in northern Maine. In northern New York State, temperatures fell close to zero and fresh snow covered the area.

Four members of a California family were killed near Wheeling, W. Va., in a car-truck accident on slush-covered Route 40.

Other weather-attributed fatalities were reported in Pennsylvania, Colorado and Iowa.

30 More White Hostages Slain

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Thirty more white hostages, all missionaries and their families, are believed to have been killed by rebels in the northeastern Congo, refugees arriving here said Sunday.

The missing include an American, Mary Baker of Richmond, Va. She was last reported at Banalia, 82 miles north of Stanleyville, on Nov. 20.

Fifteen other missionaries were missing from Banalia and 14 more from Bafwasende, 150 miles northeast of Stanleyville.

Fourteen refugees freed at Bafwasende by white mercenary troops said they were not sure the other hostages in the town had been killed.

"We heard one volley of rifle fire," said Dolena Burk of Calgary, Alta., "but later the simbas (rebel soldiers) promised us they had not been killed."

Mrs. Burk's husband is among the missing.

Other refugees said the mercenaries told them they found traces of a recent massacre at Banalia. Children's clothes, the habits of a nun and a priest and splashes of blood were discovered on the slope leading up to Banalia's ferryboat, the soldiers told them.

Besides Mrs. Burk, the survivors included 11 Italian Roman Catholic nuns and two British women missionaries. They were rescued Saturday.

Mrs. Burk said the simbas became furious after central government planes raided Bafwasende. All the white hostages, who had been crammed for three days in a single room, were taken out to be shot, she said.

"They separated us and the nuns from the others," she said. Eight Dutch Catholic priests, her husband, a British family and an Australian and a British woman were in the other group.

Priests Held As Prisoners

$511,000 Estimated As Jersey Loot

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Gunmen robbed a bank truck of $511,000 in cash outside a church rectory today after making prisoners of three priests and waiting with them for the truck's arrival.

The bandits invaded the rectory of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church about 9 a. m. and handcuffed and bound the three priests.

They seized the two truck guards as they arrived, disarmed them and then looted the vehicle, making their escape by car.

Police said three gunmen wearing Halloween masks went inside the rectory, but they said an alarm had been broadcast for a getaway car carrying possibly six men.

Truck guard Frank Fernandi said that as he and his partner, John Godley, entered the rectory, a gunman ordered them inside.

The guards, who carry revolvers, were handcuffed and left inside the rectory with the priests.

After the bandits escaped by car, an alarm was telephoned to police headquarters from the rectory.

John Anderson, vice president of the First National Bank of Passaic County, said the bank's vehicle was of the conventional armored type.

"We still don't understand why the alarm didn't go off," Anderson said. "If the doors of (Continued on Page Two)"

Egypt Downs U.S. Aircraft

Private Plane 'Ignored Orders'

CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian government said today a U.S. oil company plane shot down near Alexandria Saturday ignored repeated orders to land.

Its American pilot and Scandinavian copilot were killed. They were identified only as Hoyt Williams, 44, of Texas, and Kejel Grup, 35, a Scandinavian.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the plane, a twin-engine Fairchild C82, belonged to the John W. Meecom Oil Co. of Houston, Tex.

The plane was on a flight from Amman, Jordan, to Benghazi, Libya, to buy drilling detergent for Meecom's operations in Jordan, a company spokesman said.

The Egyptian government said two Egyptian MIG fighters intercepted the plane as it started across the Sinai Desert south of Aqaba, Jordan, and ordered it to land at Cairo Airport.

After starting to set down, official reports said, the plane resumed its northwesterly course. It was shot down over Lake Idku, on the shores of the Mediterranean, the government said.

The pilot apparently filed a flight plan an hour before taking off from Amman. Egyptian authorities normally take a week to approve a flight plan and there appeared little doubt that officials here were not promptly informed of the flight.

The U.S. Embassy said it had requested a thorough analysis and review of the incident. It said the U.S. and Egyptian governments were cooperating in the investigation.

Meecom earlier this year signed a 40-year contract giving him oil wildcatting rights in all of Jordan. He is a close friend of King Hussein, and the young monarch visited him in Houston after they signed the contract.

Life-Termer Flees London Prison Farm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Authorities continued their search throughout Ohio today for a life-term prison fugitive who escaped from the London Correctional Institution in neighboring Madison County.

The fugitive, Arthur Benner Jr., 36, sentenced in connection with the death of a Fremont police officer 16 years ago, drove off in a guard's car shortly after noon Sunday.

Authorities said Benner stole the car after being released, as he was occasionally, to exercise outside the prison building. A tower guard spotted the car but recognized it as belonging to a guard.

Benner is 6-foot-1 and weighs 217 pounds. He was wearing a black leather jacket and blue jeans when last seen. The car is a beige 1963 Ford with Ohio license 40GS.

He was convicted in Sandusky County in 1948 in the death of rookie policeman George (Joe) Biggs, who attempted to stop a stolen car in which Benner and another man, William Shacklett, were riding. At the time, Benner and Shacklett both gave Detroit addresses.

Biggs jumped on the running board of the car and was crushed to death when it swerved into the side of a tractor-trailer truck.

The car crashed and Benner fled on foot. Shacklett, 21, was shot to death trying to escape. Benner later was arrested in Florida.

Santa Claus, Ga., Showing Growth

SANTA CLAUS, Ga. (AP) — Santa Claus is on the move this Christmas season.

"We're doing rather well in Santa Claus, we feel," Mayor Bill Salem said today. "We have our first street being paved — Reindeer Street."

The mayor said the population of the city has increased from 5 in 1960 to 28 at present. "We've issued permits for three or four new homes and are looking forward to an additional 12 to 16 soon," he said.

During the Christmas season, Salem said, letters from all over the world arrive to be post-marked.

U.S. Weekend Fires Kill 66

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 66 multiple fire deaths have been recorded over the nation in the last three days with more than half the victims children.

House fires killed six and seven persons at a time as cold weather gripped parts of the nation in advance of today's calendar start of the winter. Home furnaces were pushed to near maximum capacity.

The death toll by days:

Sunday: At least 20 dead, 14 children and six adults. A mother and her six youngsters perished in one upstate New York blaze.

Saturday: At least 26 dead, 23 children and three adults, with one fire killing six youngsters, and two others claiming five each.

Friday: Fire swept a nursing home in Fountaintown, Ind., killing 20 elderly residents.

Poor Old Santa Claus Locked In for Night

POMEROY, Ohio (AP) — Santa Claus, but in plainclothes, had to be rescued from a Pomeroy department store Saturday night.

Passersby attracted by a tapping on the front window called police who summoned a store official with a key to release George Sayre of New Haven, W. Va.

Sayre explained that he was upstairs changing from his Santa uniform when the place was locked up for the night.

Doctors Stage Strike

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Doctors in public hospitals went on strike for higher wages today. Skeleton crews manned the emergency wards, but the medics said they would be withdrawn Wednesday if demands were not met.

Stock Prices Still Climbing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued its rally into the fourth straight session early this afternoon. Trading was active.

The improvement was fairly broad, there being some exceptions, among them steels, tobaccos and nonferrous metals.

An upward trend prevailed among motors, chemicals, rails, airlines, building materials, electrical equipments, aerospace issues, utilities and drugs.

General Motors was up a full point while Chrysler and Ford added fractions.

DuPont bolstered the averages with a 2-point gain.

Comsat continued its sharp retreat, losing another point, following an advisory service recommendation that it be sold.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 324.7 with industrials up 1.6, rails up .7 and utilities up .5.

Anderson said the bank's $511,000 was covered by insurance.

Fernandi and Godley, both about 40 and veteran employees, were on a regular Monday route which included cash pickups from three churches and deliveries of cash to three of the bank's branches, according to Anderson.

They started at the bank's main office where they picked up money for the branch banks. They had not made any deliveries to the branches before the holdup, Anderson said.

Deputy Police Chief William Ludwig said the crime was definitely the work of professionals who had studied the route and timing of the truck.

First reports said the church rectory safe had been looted also, but a later check showed the $1,100 still in the safe.

State Liquor Aides To Get Pay Boosts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 10 per cent across-the-board pay increase for all state liquor store employees was announced today by Liquor Director Don D. Cook.

He said the increase was granted, effective Jan. 1, 1965, at the insistence of Gov. James A. Rhodes, and that it was worked out with the Department of Finance and the Department of Personnel.

Director Cook said the increases, which will cost the department $345,000 a year, will be financed out of existing appropriations and that they are made possible due to 1963 departmental budget savings.

Cook said about 1,400 state liquor employees will be affected, and he listed these specific increases:

Retail Clerk I, now $240, going to $264 monthly.

Retail Clerk II, now $264, going to $288.

Store manager I, now $330, going to $360.

Store manager II, now $380, going to $420.

Store manager III, now $420, going to $460.

Store manager IV, now $460, going to $500.

Policemen Called On 7 Accidents

Circleville Police investigated seven vehicle accidents during the weekend, six of them on Saturday.

At least three of the mishaps were attributed to slippery conditions following a light snow which commenced Saturday evening.

Officers said no injuries resulted. Vehicle damage was reported light.

Robbers Gag Woman, Steal Coin Collection

CLEVELAND (AP)—Three robbers forced their way into the home of an 85-year-old woman Sunday night, handcuffed and gagged her and stole $1,343 worth of coins from a collection.

The woman, Mrs. Rose Hegedus was found two hours after the robbers fled. Her wrists were cuffed behind her, and a towel and pillow case were tied around her face.

The coins were from a collection owned by the woman's son.

Barry Takes Fresh Look At Squabble over Burch

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater takes a fresh look today at the controversy over Republican National Chairman Dean Burch at a high-level GOP strategy conference.

Invited to sit in with the defeated presidential candidate were his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, Burch and the chairmen of the party's two congressional campaign committees, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky and Rep. Bob Wilson of California.

Morton said Sunday night he did not expect to attend. "I just had a tooth pulled and a couple of minor things happened," he said in Louisville, adding he had another dentist appointment scheduled today.

There were signs Goldwater hoped to enlist support from Morton and Wilson in an active effort to save Burch's job. Moderate and progressive Republicans are trying to get rid of Burch in the wake of last month's overwhelming Republican defeat.

A showdown is expected when the GOP National Committee meets Jan. 22-23 in Chicago.

Mexican Train Wreck Fatal to 41

VILLAHERMOSA, Mexico (AP)—A speeding freight train rammed into the back of a halted passenger train in dense fog near here Sunday, killing 41 persons and injuring 75. Three of the injured were American tourists.

Nils Werner of Alhambra, Calif., was reported in critical condition. His right arm had been amputated and he was in danger of losing a leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benson of Fresno, Calif., were reported doing well. They suffered leg fractures and other injuries.

The accident occurred at the mountain village of Tacotalpa, 45 miles south of this capital of Tabasco State in southeastern Mexico. The area is about 600 miles southeast of Mexico City. The Americans were on their way back to Mexico City after visiting the archeological area of Palenque, in nearby Chiapas.

Authorities blamed the wreck on the fog and lack of attention on the part of the engineer of the freight train. A member of the freight train crew said the engineer apparently had been dozing and did not see the stopped train until too late.

The engineer, identified as Miguel Sanchez Cruz, fled from the scene.

Judge Denies Abbott Case Trial Change

CINCINNATI (AP)—A motion to move the first-degree murder trial of Robert R. Abbott away from Hamilton County was denied today by Common Pleas Judge Otis R. Hess.

Judge Hess told Harry McIlwain, attorney for the 21-year-old Dayton, Ky., salesman that it would be up to the trial court to determine whether unprejudiced jurors can be seated in the case. He said he would set the trial date later.

Abbott was arrested Oct. 22 and charged with the slaying of Wanda Cook, 24, a nurse at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington, Ky., who had returned to her parents' home in Bellevue, Ky., for a vacation. Police believe she was shot to death in a Cincinnati hotel room either Oct. 15 or 16.

Miss Cook's body was shipped to Cleveland as baggage on a train and was found in the railroad terminal there on Oct. 21.

Abbott sat impassively in the court room while McIlwain argued that publicity in local news media has made it impossible for his client to receive a fair trial.

The attorney, an Ohio State legislator, also criticized the way police have handled the case. He asked Judge Hess to transfer the trial to the Scioto County Common Pleas Court in Portsmouth, an Ohio river city 100 miles east of Cincinnati.

Nativity Figurines Returned by Thief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Figures of the Holy Family stolen from a Nativity scene display a few days ago are back together again, with the thief apparently having a change of heart.

The figures were taken from a Cussins & Fearn warehouse display on Indianola Avenue. The figure of Joseph was returned Friday night and that of the Christ Child over the weekend.

Speeders Top Court Docket

Speeding motorists headed the list of traffic violators on today's completed Circleville Municipal Court traffic docket.

David Rees, 36, Rio Grand, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of speeding 85 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone. He was fined $50 and costs by Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

Two motorists forfeited $50 bonds. They were Roscoe Edwards, 29, Columbus, charged with speeding 80 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone, and Charles Cookson, 48, Ashville, cited for speeding 85 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Paying $10 fines plus the costs for exceeding the speed limit by 10 miles per hour were James Fisher, 33, Hurricane, W. Va., and Wade Kirkpatrick, 33, Columbus.

Paying fines of $15 were: Larry Cousins, 23, Chillicothe; Betty Green, 19, Johnstown, James Quinn, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Donald Salyers, 29, Gary, Ind.; John Coleman, 29, Gary, Ind.; Joseph Monk, 23, Columbus; Charles Thomas, 27, Dearborn Heights, Mich.; Benny Arrowood, 27, Columbus.

Paying fines of $20 plus costs for speeding were:

Richard Grinstead, 20, Columbus; Kennis DeBoard, 22, Columbus; Robert Giesinger, 24, Chillicothe; James Funk, 23, Wellston.

Alvin Frye, 26, Crestline, was fined $25 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Elmer Lowery, 28, Lowery Lane, was fined $15 and costs for making an improper turn.

Jerry Keaton, 18, of 539 E. Union St.; $15 and costs for failure to heed a stop sign.

Claude Smith, 40, Amanda; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Cincinnati Slaying Suspect Is Held

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—The Warren County Sheriff's office said a suspect was being questioned in connection with the killing early today of a service station attendant in the Cincinnati suburb of Springdale.

Deputies said the man, who was not identified, was driving what was believed to be a stolen car, was armed and had what appeared to be blood stains on his clothing.

Dennis T. Madden, 22, of Cincinnati, an attendant at a service station near the Tri-County Shopping Center in Springdale, was shot four times while he apparently attempted to flee during a robbery attempt. The station's receipts were still on his person.

If Latin America is to pull itself up by the bootstraps with the help of the Alliance for Progress, it should show definite signs of improvement in the near future. But first some basic changes will be necessary in the manner in which U. S. Alliance funds go about building an impoverished economy.

It is not enough to build schools, houses or irrigation projects with aid dollars. The spirit of a long deprived populace needs revitalizing. The incentive to produce and invest needs to be stimulated by promise of appealing reward.

The personal freedoms essential to a productive society — so lacking in many areas of Latin America — need to be nurtured. And greatfulness for outside help must replace the arrogance and hostility which drove investors out of South and Central America in recent years.

These are the ingredients for a new Latin life. These are the foundation blocks the vast, and potentially rich, region needs most. Ironically, there are signs Latin leaders are beginning to recognize these facts, while Washington continues to concentrate on dollars plowed into the Alliance as if dollars alone were all that were needed.

For the second time this year, Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs Thomas C. Mann has issued a report to the President optimistically recording a greater volume of dollars loaned to the Alliance this year than last. The $450 million loaned during the first six months of this year exceeded the total for the year 1963.

The current year, said Mann, "has been marked by a new unity of purpose in making the Alliance not just a statement of goals but a reality."

Some parts of Central America, Mexico and Venezuela are showing higher rates of economic growth, while Brazil and Chile are making progress in curbing the rampant inflation which has all but wrecked their economies. These are the examples of progress which should be proclaimed and held aloft as examples by Latin officials and Washington.

The influx of dollars into the Alliance for Progress naturally has an effect on the success of the program, but it is not necessarily a good effect. Dollars squandered on bureaucratic whims or used to cover up political shortcomings delay, instead of enhance, solid reform.

That is why the number of dollars plowed into a complex of government machinery are less important than what comes out the other end.

'Humane' War Progress

No modern general will disagree with the simple observation credited to Gen. Sherman that "war is hell." But if some of them have their way, weapons of the future will not only be more effective militarily, they will also be more humane.

Chemical, bacteriological and radiological warfare has the reputation, gained in World War I, of being one of the most crippling and despicable weapons in any arsenal. But it need not be so. One of the most rapidly growing wings of this special type of warfare is concerned with saving the lives of enemy troops while making it easier to capture them.

Immobilizing entire armies long enough to disarm them, without permanent harm to the captured, has been a military goal for centuries. There are indications that the United States has achieved that goal, at least in the laboratory. The Army's Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland, contains more virologists and bacteriologists than any city in the United States except Chicago and

Kids Spend $11 Billion Yearly

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

America's 22½ million teenagers spend an estimated $11 billion yearly.

Probably the most contagious of all human diseases is ergasophobia — the fear of work.

One in every 10 U.S. families — some five million in all — is now headed by a woman. In a third of these families there is a child of school age, and in an additional 23 per cent a child under 6.

If you don't receive at least 15 Christmas cards, you aren't as popular as the average guy.

Scientists at the University of Alabama are working on a chewing gum they hope will help prevent dental decay.

In eight out of 10 cases of automobile theft the culprit is a boy under 30.

It costs as much to produce a television commercial today as it used to take to put on a three-act dramatic play. One recent 90-second auto commercial required the cooperation of 200 people in five states over a four-month period. The final bill was $27,000.

History lesson: What president carried a bullet in his arm for 20 years? He was Andrew Jackson, who was wounded in a duel in 1812. The imbedded bullet wasn't removed until 1832. Perhaps the most cantankerous of all White House residents, Jackson, according to some authorities, engaged in approximately 100 brawls and duels in his lifetime.

New York. "Humane" warfare is one of their prime missions.

CBR warfare, particularly of the non-violent type, would undoubtedly have stirred greater public awareness if it were not for a blinding fear mere mention of the term produces in the public mind.

As it is, CBR weapons may yet prove to be the nemesis of the hydrogen bomb. Certainly a world - be aggressor who feels he has the nuclear edge or at least hopes to catch a victim unaware will think twice if his population faces near total immobilization by a type of warfare which gives no warning, leaves no traces, but for a fatal period of time collapses his military potential into a stupor.

Recognizing what Sherman said war is does not mean one avoids the means of defending himself. To the contrary, he should be better prepared than ever. And CBR weaponry, minus its old image, is rapidly becoming one of the most convincing deterrents in any arsenal.

able to gnaw while submerged without getting water in their mouths. If you think that's easy, try it yourself. A cricket only an inch long can make a chirp loud enough to be heard almost a mile. Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

It is terribly hard to understand why Gov. Rhodes and the state have cut Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and other welfare and general relief programs.

It seems to me that people on poor relief already are miserably fed and underclothed. Yet we expect these persons to go out and work — underfed and not adequately clothed.

I think most of these people are willing to work if only they could get enough to eat and decent clothes to work in.

In view of this situation, it's even harder to understand the fact state legislators have voted pay raises for themselves, welfare workers, county commissioners and other local government officials.

It is easy to hear how welfare departments are clamping down on relief clients. The reason, it is said, is to protect the taxpayer's money. Perhaps it is nearer the truth to say they are voting the taxpayer money to themselves — and at the same time making it harder on undernourished and impoverished persons.

It's very possible this sort of policy could cost taxpayers even more money in the way of medical bills. Look what happens when animals are only half fed. They get sick. So do humans.

Many persons are forced to rely on the Red Cross, Salvation Army and church organizations for existence. Some would probably perish if they couldn't.

Consider the seemingly endless aid given people in other lands who have fought us in war

"To what do you attribute the fact that you are 100 years old today?"

This standard question calls forth a variety of standard answers.

"I never drink coffee, tea or whiskey — only milk and pomegranate juice."

"I drink 14 cups of coffee and a pint of whiskey every day."

"I never touch tobacco or snuff."

"I've smoked 18 corn cobs filled with country tobacco every day for 88 years."

After having lived for 100 years, the centenarian has earned the right to become — for one day at least — a medical and social philosopher, and offer his formula for long life.

Years alone cannot be used to measure a lifetime. Personal happiness, security, dignity and productivity, accompanied by good health, need not be limited by age, or dependent on time.

People must live their lives rather than die their lives in fear, conflict and confusion.

Living is a delicate and difficult art. Problems and critical decisions enter into every phase of existence.

To seek peace of mind by avoiding problems is unrealistic. Real peace of mind comes with maturity in recognizing the problems which exist, facing them, and solving them.

From the solution of one problem must come the confident knowledge that the problems with ideas and remedial suggestions.

Another Set of Books

If Medicare, as is now being suggested by Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee, is to be financed not by an added Social Security tax but by a separate payroll tax, it will mean that the federal government must keep still another set of books. There will be the regular budget ledger of $100 billion (assuming that President Johnson lives up to his implied promise to the businessmen to hold the line at that figure). Then there will be $20 billion more or less in additional cash outlays to the public for social security, railroad retirement and other things of this nature that don't get counted in the regular budget. Finally, there will be the Medicare disbursements paid for by the special tax, which, so its proponents say, would come to $1.5 billion the first year (the sum would surely jump as time goes by).

Now, there is no reason why a government should not keep three separate sets of books, provided that people are really made aware that the grand total of $120 billion plus is coming out of their pocketbooks and not raining down as manna from heaven. But by compartmentalizing our accounting practices, we create a climate of negligence. And there is still a fourth set of books that must be considered if we are really to fight complacency. This is the set kept by the states and the local communities, which will run to $70 billion for 1964.

With Medicare, we shall be driving toward a total government spending bill (federal, state and local) just short of $200 billion a year, which is about a third of the national income.

Three Massachusetts college girls put in the highest bid — $400 — for a two-ton female hippopotamus, offered for sale by New York City because its zoos are overcrowded. Big deal!

What the girls would do with the hippo no one seemed to know. At the cost — roughly $10 a pound — it's too expensive to turn into steaks.

Nor can the girls use it as a decoration for their Christmas tree. The huge beast might eat the tree.

Meanwhile, we read that style conscious Washingtonians are keeping busy trying to guess what type hat President Johnson will wear to his inaugural — the traditional silk topper or an Eisenhower-type homburg. What's wrong with a Texas-style 10-gallon job?

All those educational games, being offered as Christmas gifts have Junior worried — he's afraid Santa Claus may be in cahoots with teacher.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The second heavy snow of the winter season started falling here with two-inches expected by evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Recobs, Ashville, were entertained at a family dinner in honor of their 35th wedding anniversary.

It was announced that the 1960 March of Dimes Drive would be launched here Jan. 2.

TEN YEARS AGO

A community tree with free candy for the children was planned at The Elks Home, 644 S. Scioto St.

Merchandise and a small amount of change were stolen from Quality Cleaners, Plum St., during the night.

The medical staff of Berger Hospital held a Christmas party for all employees of the hospital in Tink's Party Room.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Kroger's were advertising fresh oysters for 49 cents a quart.

A distribution of oats and apples was made to relief clients at the Goldfrederick Building.

Appointments of heads of various city departments and members of boards announced by Mayor W. B. Cady were approved by Council.

3,000 ORNAMENTS and 960 lights bespangle this Christmas tree in the White House Blue Room. The First Family also has another tree, a smaller long needle pine, on a table in the West Hall on the second floor living quarters.

prove urban safety, better local power generation facilities, more state computer centers for use in studying traffic and tax matters and even local nuclear power plants. Moreover, it was not only the prospect of sales that seemed to be pleasing Mr. Phillippe. He took the philosophical satisfaction of a good decentralist in noting that "the problems of urban growth, or exploding school-age population, of traffic strangulation, of downtown decay, of unemployment, of racial tensions. . . are essentially problems of the community."

To take care of community needs, State tax collections have already jumped by some ten per cent in 1964. On Mr. Phillippe's projection they will go higher in 1965 and 1966. This would not be disturbing if federal taxes were only going down more than they are. However with the states and localities taking a bigger bite of the national income, we'll have to have bigger and better federal tax cuts — and a regular budget trimmed some distance below the $100 billion mark — if we are to stay even in the matter of total tax take.

Professor Galbraith may not be worried about spending more than a third of the national income on the public sector. But Professor John Maynard Keynes, his mentor, was willing to concede that when even twenty-five per cent of the national product is taken by government, inflation is probably right around the corner.

BERLIN WALL OPENED FOR CHRISTMAS VISITS—The first cars pass through Sonnenallee crossing point in Berlin as the Communists open the Berlin Wall for Christmas visits to the Soviet zone. The wall will be revealed Jan. 3.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson couldn't have a much better Christmas. He has everything going for him. There's no crisis in sight. He has four years as President ahead. The country is prosperous. His own Democrats, in control of Congress, outnumber the Republicans tremendously. Worse than that for his opposition, the decimated Republicans are even divided on where they go from here. The Russians, having scuttled Nikita Khrushchev, are trying to get accustomed to being without him, but the Red Chinese are just as mad at them as they were at Khrushchev. Johnson made so few promises in the election campaign he is free to go in almost any direction now and by soft-pedaling what he has in mind he has saved himself from criticism before he gets started.

Although the United States is the strongest military power on earth, the NATO Allies are disagreeing among themselves but they have been doing that quite a while and Johnson can not be blamed for it. In fact, if they start getting along soon, he will probably get much of the credit since, instead of barging into the differences, he presents himself as the spreader of oil on troubled waters.

Even the civil rights turmoil has subsided a bit. And, thanks to the Supreme Court's approval of the ban on discrimination in places like hotels and restaurants, one big cause of trouble has had much of the sting taken out.

Johnson would like to keep the budget for next year below $100 billion, and he will be working at it on his Texas ranch this week, getting ready to present his figures to Congress in January.

But even here if he cannot reach the desired figure, a storm is unlikely because he has already done such a good job of creating an image of himself as a penny-pincher.

True, he does not seem to have figured out yet how to handle the press. He has been trying it every which way: in big news conferences announced ahead of time; in peripatetic conferences with a handful of reporters on the White House lawn; or in his office with small, selected groups of newsmen who can report what he says so long as they do not say he said it.

Nevertheless, he has been getting along all right, even with such mixed up arrangements, and no wonder. As President, he will keep on making front pages when he says anything and when he doesn't.

Fidel Castro is still a pain, but he was a pain to President John F. Kennedy, and there is no immediate need for a solution.

The Communists in Viet Nam are making a mess of a Johnsonian hopes for a quick or easy victory, but Kennedy had to sweat that one out too, and by playing pretty mum Johnson is keeping down the anxiety factor.

There is no sound of fussing among the Cabinet members he inherited from Kennedy and as they depart one by one, as they probably will, it will all be done with a public exchange of sweet regrets, thus preserving a position of harmony.

All this quietude, being a bit abnormal in the White House, may not last much beyond the first of the year. But, until then, Johnson can enjoy his Christmas tree, saying thanks to Santa Claus for a happy holiday.

"ANTI-AIRCRAFT" TRIAL—Gilbert H. Hagerman, 68, New Carlisle, O., leaves his Dayton arraignment on five charges of shooting at and hitting five military planes which flew near his home. The judge said trial date probably will be set Jan. 8.

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A system to identify and record railway cars traveling at 100 miles per hour, in any kind of weather, day or night, is being put into operation by the Duluth, Missabe and Iron Range Railway Co. of Minnesota. Strips of special material, arranged to form a color code representing the identification number of the car and its empty weight, are attached to each car. An automatic track-side scanner which sends out beams of white light and "reads" the car markings, was developed for the railroad by Sylva Electric Products Inc. The scanner's information is transmitted to a central point.

Cooks Host Holiday Meet

The Circleville Garden Club met Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cook, 131 Park Place, for a co-operative dinner and Christmas meeting.

Guests were Mrs. George R. Meyers, George M. Meyers, Donald H. Watt, C. C. McClure, Anne and Lynn Cook and Mrs. Alex Cook.

During the business session a note from The Red Cross was read in recognition of the 10 door swags made for Veteran's Hospital. A report was given concerning the door swags made by boys and girls of The School for Retarded with material given by the club. Pictures were exhibited of the breakfast project at Cole Nursery.

Mrs. Darrell Hatfield, treasurer, reported receipt of the new and revised Handbooks to be placed in the County Library.

A special program feature was observing and judging of the wrapping of packages brought for gift exchange. The judges were Ann Cook and Mr. Meyers.

The package brought by Handy Hatfield was declared the most beautiful. In the clever and unusual category, Mrs. Donald H. Watt placed first. Sharing recognition for the most artistic were packages wrapped by Mrs. Darrell Hatfield and Mrs. Leora Sayre.

All present enjoyed sharing and comparing the one gift most desired for Christmas.

The next meeting will be Feb. 4 with George Hamrick guest speaker.

Church Class Has Covered Dish Supper

The Dorcas Pathfinders Class of the Calvary EUB Church held a covered dish supper recently in the church parsonage. A Christmas theme was used for the table decorations.

There were 13 members and two guests present. Mrs. Talmir Wise offered prayer. Christmas carols were sung. For devotionals the second chapter of Luke was read.

Mrs. Florence Lounsbury was named to serve as the flower committee for the coming year. No gifts were exchanged but an offering was taken for the special Christmas offering at church which goes to the church home for the aged and orphans.

Get well and Christmas cards were signed by the group to be sent to those who are ill.

Mrs. Talmir Wise won the door prize. During the program Mrs. Mark Delong read a poem. Hazel Cline closed with a Christmas prayer.

The Rev. G. H. Niswender and Philip Niswender were guests.

Mrs. Mark Delong and Mrs. Jeanie Dean will be in charge of the program for the next meeting to be held in March.

Mrs. Loomis Is Feted at Stork Shower

Mrs. Marilyn Loomis was honored with a stork shower held in the home of Mrs. Beverly Knox. Co-hostesses were Miss Karen Rase and Mrs. Bertha Hardesty.

Prizes were won by Cheri Loomis, Mrs. Ernest Pennington, Bertha Drake, Ruth Loomis, Hazel Lemon and Mary Ann Hildreth. All prizes were given to the honored guest.

Gifts were sent by Mrs. Carolyn Young, Mrs. Bill Walker, Miss Karen Rase, Mrs. Olive Farrar, Mrs. Virginia Waide, Mabel Imler, Maxine Imler, Mrs. Helen Garrett, Mrs. Marilyn Mader and Mrs. Jeanie Gatwood, Circleville; Mrs. Martha Nungester, Mrs. Ruth Arledge, Kingston; Mrs. Nannie Doering, Mrs. Helen Ramey, Columbus; Mrs. Mike Hosler, Medina, Mrs. Leota Drake and Mrs. Betty Drake, Commercial Point.

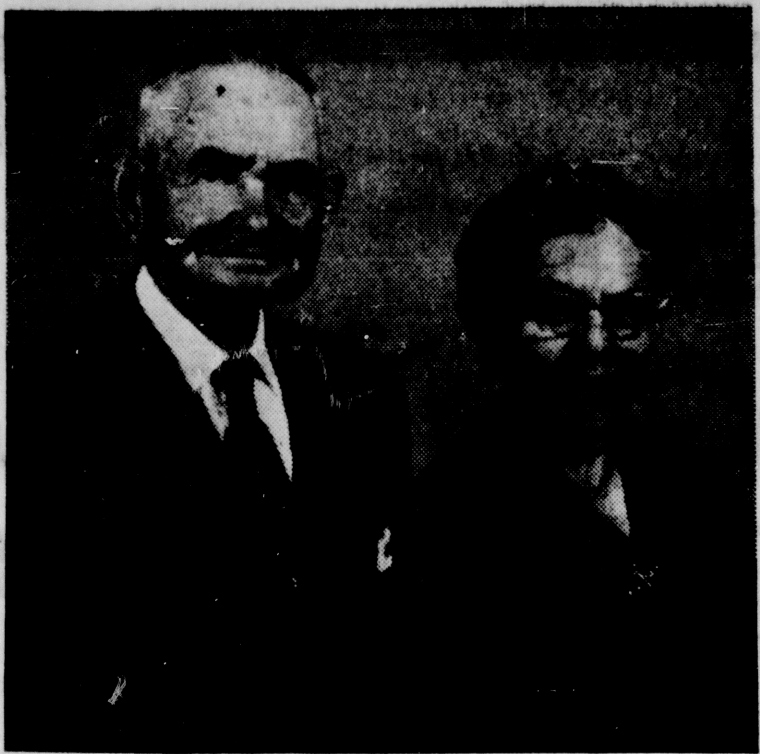

Mr. Lemaster, a 1962 graduate of Circleville High School, is serving with the U. S. Air Force in Jacksonville, Ark. The couple resides in North Little Rock, Ark.

Guild Holds Gift Exchange

Fourteen members of Berger Hospital Guild No. 6 held their annual Christmas party Tuesday evening at Tink's Tavern. A Christmas theme was used and a gift exchange was held.

Preceding dinner Mrs. Ben Temple conducted a short business meeting. Plans were completed for the Christmas food baskets for two families. Members were asked to have all food and children's gifts to Mrs. Marvene Turner by tomorrow. A committee was appointed, headed by Mrs. Howard Pryor, for the distribution of the baskets.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Anne and Bess Gordon, 604 S. Court St.,

50TH ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Wharton, Route 2, Ashville, will be honored with a celebration in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary. The event will be given by their children 2-5 p. m. Dec. 27 at Hedges Chapel Church. The couple was united in marriage Dec. 24, 1914, in the EUB Parsonage Circleville. They are the parents of three children, Mrs. Glenn (Alys) Hines, Circleville; George G. Wharton, Columbus, and William W. Wharton, Ashville. They have six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Different Outlooks

DEAR ABBY: My daughter's mother-in-law invited my daughter and her family for Christmas dinner, which is no big deal, because she has a fine big home with plenty of help in the house and she won't have to stand in the kitchen and prepare it herself. Well, she told my daughter to "bring her mother." I don't care for second-hand invitations. I have a telephone and it wouldn't hurt this woman to pick up a phone and invite me herself.

Just because I'm a poor widow and haven't a big splendid home to invite her back to is no reason for her to treat me like dirt. What do you think of a person who is this cruel and stuck up?

A POOR WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: I think you are looking for a reason to be "mad" at your daughter's mother-in-law. Be grateful that she asked your daughter to bring you. The woman may be guilty of thoughtlessness, but don't label her as cruel and stuck up.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl and I have a problem. A girl friend of mine can attract boys very easily. She smokes, swears and wiggles. Her personality isn't too good and she isn't that pretty. I don't smoke, swear or wiggle. I have a pleasing personality and I'm fairly pretty. How can I attract a boy without really trying?

BOY-SEEKER

DEAR BOY-SEEKER: I don't recommend smoking, swearing or wiggling (at any age). You could work on developing your personality, but if you should happen to "attract" a boy at age 12, what on earth would you do with him?

DEAR ABBY: How does one tell a dear friend, who is also a handsome, well-groomed, re-framed gentleman that the next time he goes to his barber he should ask the barber to remove a large, unsightly blackhead on his right cheek, near his nose. It detracts from his otherwise clean-looking appearance.

SAN CARLOS

DEAR SAN: I would never suggest that a barber remove ANYTHING from the face of a client. What appears to be a "blackhead" could be a mole, growth, discolored wart, or a number of other things which neither I nor a barber is qualified to diagnose. If the man is a "dear friend," tell him to see a dermatologist for a professional opinion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOUR EYES" IN CALIFORNIA: Men have been known to make passes at girls who wear glasses, depending upon their frames.

Mrs. Anderson Hosts Guild 20

Mrs. Norman Anderson, Route 4, was hostess when Berger Hospital Guild No. 20 met for a regular session. Festive holiday decorations highlighted the home.

Mrs. Frederick Overly conducted the business meeting. There were five guests and 25 members present. Mrs. Gene Dowler played the organ while the group sang several Christmas carols.

A gift exchange was enjoyed by the group. Prizes were won by Miss Ann Short, Mrs. Ralph Stevenson and Mrs. Lawrence Selby.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Galen Mowery and Mrs. William Pontious.

Christmas Party Held By EUB Class

The Trailmakers Class of Calvary EUB Church held a Christmas party in the church annex with 15 members present. Mrs. Manley Carothers and Mrs. Herman Francis were hostesses.

Festive decorations highlighted the table and holiday favors were given to those present. Devotions were led by Mrs. Dwight Wilson, president, using as the Scripture the second chapter of Luke.

During a short business meeting election of officers was held and the results were: Mrs. Henry Betz, president; Mrs. Dorothy Wise, vice president; Mrs. Lewis Cook, secretary; Mrs. Nelson Lape, treasurer.

Instead of the usual gift exchange each member gave the amount they would pay for a gift to the Flat Rock Children's Home. The traveling prize was won by Mrs. Bill Ankrom.

Mrs. Lewis Cook conducted the social hour and prizes were won by Mrs. Carothers, Mrs. A. W. Goeller and Mrs. Delores Wolfe.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Dwight Wilson.

Holiday Theme Highlights Circle Meeting

Mrs. Wayne Delong entertained the members of the Isabella Thoburn Circle Thursday evening at her home on Eastern Ave.

Two guests were present, Mrs. Robert Rounsey, and Mrs. Fred Jones. Mrs. Jones gave the devotionals appropriate to Christmas. Mrs. Roger Wood was in charge of the program.

Mrs. Carroll Minor, president, presided during the business meeting. It was voted to pay $50 to the church budget, $40 to the parsonage fund, and $20 on the missionary pledge. A basket of groceries for the parsonage family was also planned.

The hostess served a dessert course. Christmas decorations were used throughout the home.

Reporter Poses as Santa In Department Store

By STEPHENS BROENING

BALTIMORE (AP) — A department store Santa Claus wears a $100 suit, works out of the weather and makes extravagant promises for which he never will be called to account.

He sits on what can only be described as a throne, admired by children and smiled on benignly by old ladies.

But the work is not without its hazards, as I discovered when I sat in for two hours in a downtown emporium for the regular Santa Claus.

As I dressed, the Santa supervisor quoted the price of the costume — $100 for the red velvet suit, another $100 for the white wig and whiskers and $22 for the black boots.

"Try to remember you're not only representing the store, but to the children you're the spirit of Christmas," the supervisor said. I said I'd try.

"Don't forget to give every one a balloon," he said.

The throne was surrounded by a squad of anxious children and impatient parents. "Ho, ho, ho," I said bravely, mounting the throne, "Merry Christmas."

At that a boy broke ranks and pounced on my lap. "I'm Randy," he said, pre-empting my first question.

"Watcha gonna bring me for Christmas?" he demanded. "What would you like," I countered, trying to gain control of the interview.

"Are you really Santa Claus?" he asked. "Ho, ho, ho," I said defensively. "Cause if you are, how come you're askin' me what I want. Didn't you get my letter?" he said.

It was clear this boy did not wish me well.

"Santa gets so much mail," the spirit of Christmas explained, "that sometimes it's difficult to remember just who wants what. Now, why don't you refresh Santa's memory?"

"You've forgotten," he accused, and burst into tears. His mother dislodged him from my knee. He recaptured his composure long enough to whimper, "I wanna balloon."

During a lull, I noticed a small boy watching from a distance. His clothes were patched and soiled. He was alone.

I encouraged him to come nearer and finally coaxed him onto my knee. We established that he was James and he was 7 years old. "Well, James," I said, "what would you like Santa to bring for Christmas?"

"A coat," said James. A sensible choice, I thought. "You like one like that?" I said, pointing to a rack of children's clothes off to the right.

"No, you don't understand," he said, "I want it for my mother. She needs a coat."

"I'll see what I can do," said Santa. "Wouldn't you like a balloon?"

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Davis have received official notice that their son, Seaman Apprentice Brent Davis, is now aboard the USS Yorktown with the 7th Fleet in the Western Pacific. The Fleet is occupied with submarine surveillance. Brent reported for Navy duty last July and recently completed his boot training at Great Lakes, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Humphrey (Patty McGinnis) announce the birth of a son Dec. 17 at University Hospital, Columbus. He weighed 8 pounds, 15 ounces.

Mrs. E. W. Freshour, Mrs. J. P. Gardner, Miss Lettie Brundige and Miss Mildred Holderman attended the matinee performance of Gertrude Berg in "Dear Me, the Sky Is Falling."

Mrs. Bessie Smith and daughter, Floretta, entertained twenty-three members of their family with a turkey and baked ham dinner at their home Dec. 13.

The occasion was in celebration of the 25th wedding anniversary of Leo and Irene Smith and the birthday of Hazel, Catherine and Floretta which all occur this month. It was also the first opportunity of many of the group to see Mrs. Smith's great grandchildren, Scott and Todd Carpenter, who with their mother, recently returned from Hawaii. The twins, grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. William Steele (Margaret Smith), are 4 months old.

The family group consisted of Mrs. Smith and Floretta, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Smith and Russell, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. William Steele, Mrs. David Carpenter and Scott and Todd of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith and Terri and Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald De Ramus and Linda and Kathy of Kettering; Mrs. Hazel Rolland, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith and Donnie and Ricky of Vandalia.

Mrs. Lawrence Kerns, vice president, was in charge of the meeting when the Ne Plus Ultra Sunday School class met for a Christmas session in the Social Room of the Methodist Church. Tables were decorated in the Christmas theme and there was a tree, full of lights and ornaments, under which the gifts for the exchange were placed.

A carry-in dinner preceded the meeting. Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett read the Christmas Story and gave a meditation, including Christmas poems. She concluded with prayer. Several Christmas hymns were sung.

Birthday money was collected and cards signed for sick members. Food was brought to prepare several baskets for the needy.

The nominating committee submitted the following slate of officers which was accepted: Mrs. Lawrence Kerns, president; Mrs. Lyman Dresbach, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Jack Donahue, secretary; Miss Mildred Holderman, treasurer; Mrs. Lawrence Betz, Mrs. Lovetta Reynolds and Mrs. John Davis, cheer committee.

Mrs. Cottie Minor entertained members of her Euchre Club Thursday evening at her home in Chillicothe. Prize winners were Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Ella Minor and Mrs. Grace Francis. Others present were Mrs. Reece Sibley, Mrs. Lovetta Reynolds, Mrs. L. E. Kerns, Mrs. Bessie Smith and Mrs. Sherman Edler.

A gift exchange was enjoyed. The hostess served a dessert course.

Mrs. William S. Rhoades attended the Christmas Party for the 1964 Matrons and Patrons of Eastern Star, held at the Carriage House Thursday evening. After the dinner, there was a gift exchange and names were drawn for Mystery Sisters for 1965.

Daytonian Is Held In Shooting of Woman

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Dayton police are holding William Clark, 45, of Dayton, for investigation of homicide in the death of a 53-year-old woman.

The victim, Charlene Gibson, was dead on arrival at a hospital early Sunday with a gunshot wound in the head. Authorities said Clark told them the two wrestled for the gun following an argument.

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

Synopsis: The Snowman succeeds in fixing George's jaw, but when the turtle rushes to warn Santa of his danger Womp grabs both him and the Snowman and takes them off into the woods.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN The Fire

Womp carried the turtle and the Snowman into the woods. George squeaked for help and the Snowman hollered through his nose, but no one could hear them. Santa was having lunch in the Fairy Queen's palace and all the little fairies and pixies and Storybook folk were so busy chattering they could not have heard a clap of thunder.

"What are you going to do with us?" asked the Snowman plaintively. It was difficult for him to talk because Womp had such a tight hold of his carrot nose.

"Leave you in the woods," said Womp, "so there will be no interruptions while I play my tune for the Music Festival."

"But, can't we hear you play?" quavered the Snowman, hoping to flatter the manwith.

George swung his head around and blurted, "If we heard him we would perish! The tune he plays will put Santa and all of Fairyland to sleep for a hundred years! He told me so himself."

"You can't stop us!" said the Snowman heatedly.

"But I can," replied Womp. "And you will have a fate worse than Santa himself!"

With that he set George down upside down between two rocks and said, "You will stay there forever because you can't get on your feet again."

The turtle thrashed his feet and his head and his tail but he could not flip himself over again. To make matters worse, the more he struggled the deeper he wedged himself between the two rocks.

Then Womp pushed the Snowman into a nearby well that once held fairy water and now was empty.

"That will hold you," said Womp coldly.

It was true, because sides of the well were slippery and the Snowman's fingers were made of snow. Everytime he tried to climb out of the well he slid back to the bottom with an awful crash.

The manwith went off and

The manwith threw his lighted match on the ground.

left them but before he went he lit his pipe and threw the match on the ground. The match was still lighted and it flickered in the dry leaves among the rocks. Womp stared at the tiny flame thoughtfully. Finally he shrugged his shoulders and returned to the Festival.

The Snowman shouted from the bottom of the well. "Don't worry George! We'll get out of this! Something will happen. It always does."

The turtle was too busy to answer. He twisted and turned and beat on the rocks with his upside-down head. "Have to warn Santa," he muttered over and over. "Have to warn Santa!"

He could hear the fairy folk leaving the palace and taking their places in the Queen's garden for the afternoon Festival. Soon Womp would begin to play his flute.

"George," called the Snowman cheerfully. "Someone will be along to help us by and by. Don't worry."

George raised his head and looked wildly around as though by some miracle he might really see someone coming to help. What he saw instead caused his eyes to nearly pop from his head. He opened his mouth to warn the Snowman but only a thin high shriek came out.

"Ah, George, your voice is the very best," said the Snowman. "You surely would have won the Festival if you'd only had the chance!"

"Fire!" shouted George, making his voice work at last. "The brush is on fire! It's all around me! In a minute I'll be in it!"

He gasped and coughed in the smoke and squeaked across him.

"Help!" he gasped. "Help!"

Hong Kong Moves Mountains To Gain More Living Space

By SANFORD MARKEY
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HONG KONG — They're moving mountains in Hong Kong to provide living space for the British colony's booming population in what appears to be the safest niche in war-spotted Asia.

Called the "peep hole" into the Communist mainland, Hong Kong has a shortage of land, water and population. Yet it is enjoying a bustling economy and needs manpower for its factories even though its population has soared from about 500,000 to nearly four million people in the past 18 years.

Paradoxically, even though it borders Communist China, its people are not involved in war jitters or the exchange of bullets as is the case in virtually the rest of Asia. Furthermore, many Hong Kong residents are refugees from China with the last influx coming in 1962 when Red China opened its gates and 140,000 poured into the colony. Last year another 20,000 entered. Many moved in with friends and relatives, creating an overcrowded condition in the older housing sections. Others built their own shanty towns on vacant land and hillsides.

To cope with this influx, the British-controlled government stepped up its two-phase housing program. In one, the government constructs huge H-shaped units, each housing 2,000 people in one-room flats renting for about $2.50 a month. These resettlement estates are complete with shops, clinics, schools and community centers.

The other project is for an expanding higher-income group and consists of self-contained flats of living room, kitchen, toilet and veranda renting for $8 to $35 a month for semi-skilled and skilled workers earning $80 to $180 a month.

In the past months, both housing programs have been speeded up to create new living quarters for more than 800,000 people within five years.

There's a wide building boom, too, in better homes and "European-styled" flats of three bedrooms costing as much as $400 a month. Hong Kong authorities estimate that during 1964 some 3,000 high-price flats will be built.

This has created an intense pressure for land and a major reclamation movement is underway leveling hills and using the land for sea fill. Already, 2,100 acres have been reclaimed and two new townships have been created on both the east and west sides of Kowloon Peninsula with their own resettlement estates, factories, etc.

When completed, each will have a population of a million, greater, for example, than the city of Cleveland.

All land in Hong Kong is owned by the government and sold at auction to bidders on long term leases with guarantees that development will follow.

With a land shortage, the area also has been plagued with a lack of water, although the August seasonal rains helped. New reservoirs are being built, including one of the largest in Asia that will increase the Colony's supply by 200 per cent.

Meanwhile, almost one-third of the water received is sold by Red China and shipped either by pipeline or by a fleet of 10 tankers.

Although contingent to Red China, Hong Kong has no war scare, no racial wars, famine, coups d'etat, etc. It is a "free port" and a shoppers' paradise where goods can be bought cheaper, at times, than in the land where manufactured.

Textiles is the area's number one industry, and the famed 24-hour service to make a man's suit or woman's dress is internationally famed for its expertness.

Buried under Beer

MIAMI (AP) — A gunman held up a Miami grocery store, robbed it of $125 and then made certain the clerk wouldn't call police too quickly.

The bandit made Daniel Gallagher lie on the floor. Then he piled cases of beer and soft drinks on the clerk's back and arms. The robber was almost out of sight before Gallagher was able to dig out from under.

Workmen level a mountainside to make way for individual houses and apartment sites to cope with Hong Kong's shortage.

Steel Industry Chalks String Of '64 Marks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The steel industry set a string of records in 1964, the industry's second good year in a row.

Production zoomed to a new mark that was expected to total about 127 million tons when final figures were in. This would easily surpass the old record of 117 million tons in 1955. Output in 1963 totaled 109 million tons.

Profits were up for most companies. It appeared some producers would reap record incomes for the year.

And steelmen, who have been spending money on new plants and equipment almost with a passion, reportedly plunked down $1.8 billion for capital improvements in 1964, another record.

But some steel observers say the significant thing of 1964 wasn't the production record, the profits or the spending, but rather than realization that the once-retreating industry was moving ahead again.

For the first time in years, steelmen said they detected signs of success in a long-term struggle against competing materials and the steel industry's own old age.

The brightening picture stems from the adoption of new production and processing ideas through the spending of millions upon millions of dollars for modernization — a vast, research-oriented program that seems destined to carry the industry to sparkling heights in the years to come.

The big surge dates back to 1960, the year the record 116-day steel strike ended. It picked up additional steam following the epic clash with the government over a steel price increase in 1962.

Pushed along by a bustling national economy, steel consumption also was expected to hit a record in 1964 when all figures are in, beating the old mark of 77.8 million tons consumed in 1963.

The five biggest steel companies showed an over-all profit increase of 27 per cent in the first three quarters of 1964 compared to the same period of 1963.

Steel production clipped along at a remarkably even level in the year just ended, a result of no threat of labor trouble and good business conditions generally.

The only dark spot in the industry was another increase in foreign steel imports. The American Iron and Steel Institute estimated that imports hit a record 6 million tons, up 500,000 tons from 1963. The AISI

Horrors of Auschwitz Unfolding During Trial

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The horrors of Auschwitz have been unfolding before a German court for a year now.

The shocking testimony is clearly wearing on the judges and jury who must listen to it. They have at least no other month to go, with no verdict expected before March.

Of the 21 defendants on trial, 14 were free on bail when the sessions began Dec. 20, 1963. Of these, 9 have been jailed on the basis of incriminating evidence given in the courtroom. The other 5 never know when testimony will jail them too. Aware of this, each brings to every trial session an overnight bag with pajamas, soap, a toothbrush and an extra white shirt.

In more than 120 court sessions, over 250 witnesses have testified about deliberate savagery at the German extermination center in Poland.

Documentary evidence shows that, during its five years of operation, untold millions perished in Auschwitz — Nazi Germany's biggest and smoothest-functioning death factory. They were victims of mass gasings, burnings, hangings, shootings, torture, starvation, disease and overwork as slave laborers.

The majority were civilians — Jews, Slavs and Gypsies considered undeserving of life in the Third Reich. But they also included American, British, French, Canadian and Soviet said American steel exports increased a little over the 1963 figure of 2.2 million tons.

With the exception of possible labor trouble, steel people generally feel 1965 will be another good year for the industry. Production is expected to remain high. The AISI said capital spending will equal 1964's mark.

The United Steelworkers Union would be free to strike the basic steel industry May 1 if no contract agreement is reached by then.

prisoners of war, forced at pistol point to shed their uniforms minutes before entering the gas chambers.

The descriptions by survivors often revolt courtroom visitors. Presiding Judge Hans Hofmeyer weeps unashamedly on hearing witnesses tell such details as this:

Defendant Wilhelm Boger — nicknamed "the Devil of Auschwitz" by former inmates — tore babies from their mothers' arms and tossed them alive onto gasoline-sprayed piles of burning bodies "where they rolled around like little fire balls."

Defendant Perry Broad shot raven-haired, teen-age Jewish girls after sexually molesting them:

"Doctor" Josef Klehr, a day laborer before becoming an enlisted SS medical aide, forced young boys to hold their struggling fathers while the defendant stabbed their elders' hearts with a hypodermic needle containing lethal carbolic acid.

Judge Hofmeyer, whose face and bearing clearly show the emotional strain he is under, has girded himself for at least another month of similar testimony before adjourning the court session to ponder the guilt or innocence of the defendants. He will be joined in his deliberations by two assistant judges and four jury members.

Coverage of the trial by Frankfurt newspapers has been highly detailed. The appearance

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Auto Industry Sparks Economy

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Optimistic words and unprecedented deeds in the auto industry sparked the nation's economy last week.

Top officers of the big three automaking companies predicted a brighter 1965 even as factories throbbed at a near record production clip. Show room sales were reported at an all-time high.

Favorable developments from other quarters buoyed the outlook.

Pre-Christmas retail buying hit a fast pace, up 3 per cent from a year ago. The threat of a dock strike at East Coast and Gulf ports dissolved. The stock market shook off a sinking spell, at least temporarily.

Government figures put industrial production at an historic peak in November, and showed nonfarm employment at an all-time high.

Nonfarm jobs climbed to 59,349,000 for a rise of 195,000 from October.

Steel production, headed toward a mark about 10 million tons beyond the already exceeded 1955 record of 117 million tons, pushed past the 120 million ton level.

Ranking spokesmen for steel and a half dozen other major industries appearing on a panel in Chicago echoed the view of auto executives forecasting robust business next year, especially in the first half.

Austin T. Cushman, chairman of Sears Roebuck and Co., foresaw gains of 4 to 5 per cent in spring sales by retailers. Optimistic expressions also came from heads of large oil, farm machinery, construction and appliance firms and from Harry C. Murphy, president of the Burlington Railroad.

On the darker side, apprehensions about a possible steel strike next spring quickened a mite. Although postponed again, the threat of a railroad strike after Jan. 1 remained. Housing starts slumped, extending a trend of relative weakness.

Henry Ford II, chairman of the No. 2 automaking concern, foresaw 8.7 million new car sales in 1965, plus 1.4 million truck units. The gain in cars over this year would exceed 7 per cent.

In optimism, Ford's projection was close to those of Frederick G. Donner, General Motors board chairman, and Lynn H. Townsend, president of Chrysler. All three companies said they were letting out a notch on ambitious capital expansion programs for next year.

Meantime, dealer sales fairly sizzled in the early part of December. Statistics for the first 10 days showed deliveries of U.S. built new cars soared to 239,185, up nearly 40,000 from the comparable span in 1963.

The licky split Chrysler selling pace ran 53 per cent ahead of a year ago. GM daily deliveries were 10 per cent higher. Ford slipped 10 per cent, influenced by the strike in November that slowed production to a creep for several days.

More than 200,000 units were scheduled in assembly plants for a third week running. To meet quotas, Saturday work was planned in 31 of the auto industry's 47 assembly plants.

The business world responded with a rare outburst of applause when President Johnson appointed John Connor, 50, president of Merck & Co., New Jersey drug firm, as successor to Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, 66, who is resigning Jan. 15.

Heads of such companies as GM, U.S. Steel Corp., General Foods, General Electric and American Telephone & Telegraph Co., praised Connor highly, and pledged support. Some hopes were expressed of a new high in business-government harmony.

In Pittsburgh, 12 large steel companies, seeking higher profits, and the United Steel Workers Union, bidding for a substantial wage increase, sat down to thresh out conflicting aims.

The USW demands, said the companies, would divert an "unfair share" of the proceeds of the business to employees, and unduly restrict management prerogatives.

Speaking for the steelworkers, David J. McDonald, president, said the companies abused statistics to reach unwarranted conclusions.

In finance, a question arose whether civil rights strife in the South was having an adverse effect on the marketing of municipal bond issues from Dixie.

A Mississippi municipality, the Pearl River Valley Water Supply District, failed to get an acceptable bid on a $24.65 million issue of bonds.

However, the next day $8,775,000 of Mississippi school bonds were successfully marketed, although at slightly elevated interest rates, despite urgings of civil right organizations for a boycott by investment bankers.

Here and there around the business and finance scene:

Consolidated Edison Co. directors proposed a 2 for 1 stock split. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. elected H. I. Romnes president, effective Jan. 1, to succeed Eugene J. McNeely, who will retire about a year ahead of the usual date; Frederick R. Kappel, chairman, remains AT&T chief executive. Radio Corp. of America and Siemens & Halske of West Germany joined hands in the computer business with a 10-year patent license and technical information agreement.

Ducked in Time
WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Fireman Roger Dolloff was riding as tillerman — rear driver — on a hook and ladder rig here when it approached an overpass.

He noticed a sign listing the overhead clearance of the pass at 10 feet 4 inches.

Just in time, Dolloff remembered that sitting erect in his tillerman's seat put his head almost 11 feet above ground.

Dolloff ducked and kept his head.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Dec. 21, the 356th day of 1964. There are 10 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1620, the pilgrims arrived at what now is Plymouth, Mass. Their tiny ship "Mayflower" had reached Cape Cod in November.

On this date:

In 1776, Benjamin Franklin arrived in Paris on a mission to secure aid for the colonists.

In 1804, the English Statesman Benjamin Disraeli was born.

In 1898, radium was discovered by Pierre and Marie Curie.

In 1945, Gen. George Patton died of injuries received two weeks earlier in an auto accident at Heidelberg, Germany.

In 1951, an explosion in the New Orient Mine at West Frankfort, Ill., killed 119 men.

Ten years ago — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles declared atomic weapons would be used tactically against aggression in Europe.

Five years ago — Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru rejected a Chinese Communist proposal for early talks to settle their border dispute.

One year ago — President Johnson ordered a committee formed to study the economic impact of possible arms reductions and changes in defense spending.

HALO, THERE—Anthony Travia, D-New York City, minority leader in the New York State Assembly called into special session in Albany, seems to have celestial support as he blasts the GOP plan for reapportionment. The "halo" is a light fixture.

Ohio Dems Seek Curb On GOP in Legislature

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democrats who made important gains in the November election are girding for a major battle to deny Republicans an edge in the evenly divided Senate of the 1965 General Assembly.

The showdown comes when lawmakers return Dec. 29 to wind up the six-week special session in which majority Republicans still have things pretty much their own way.

Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, eyeing reelection two years hence, got his bulky program through the extraordinary session virtually intact.

Key issues were congressional redistricting and legislative reapportionment approved under the spur of U.S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" decisions. No one professed to like the results.

Other major proposals regarded more favorably included creation of Cleveland State University, Toledo State College of Medicine, an adult parole authority, youth commission revision, broadened ADCU participation and pay raises for legislators, cabinet members, judges and county and township officials.

Still others, which require voter approval along with reapportionment, are a $290 million capital improvements bond issue industrial financing and higher education loans.

But Democrats stalled a party bid to clothe GOP Lt. Gov. John W. Brown with power to break tie Senate votes on legislation in the regular session convening Jan. 4. Brown presides over Senate sessions by virtue of his office.

Brown's role as a tie-breaker could be decisive in the 1965 legislature because Democrats and Republicans will be equally divided, 16-16, with 17 votes needed to pass measures.

His authority to break Senate deadlocks generally has been regarded as limited to organizational matters in the upper chamber. But Republicans now contend that the Ohio Constitution contains no such restrictions.

A bill spelling out further tie-breaking authority passed the Senate in an asserted effort to bring court determination of power.

Indonesian Reds Shun World Commie Talks

TOKYO (AP) — The Indonesian Communist party has told Moscow it will not attend the Soviet-proposed preparatory conference of a world Communist meeting March 1.

The New China News Agency reported that the Indonesian party told the Soviet Embassy in Jakarta of its decision.

Party Chairman D. N. Aidit was quoted as telling the Soviet ambassador it would be better not to call the meeting "because it would further split the international Communist movement."

Newark Air Station Jurisdiction Altered

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — The Newark Air Force Station, currently under the jurisdiction of the Middletown Air Materiel Area, Olmsted AFB, Pa., will become a part of the Air Force Logistic Command of Wright-Patterson AFB, Dayton, Ohio.

Newark is manned by the 2802nd Inertial Guidance and Calibration Group which has responsibility for test and repair of inertial guidance systems of intercontinental ballistic missiles and advanced aircraft.

Democrats termed the measure clearly unconstitutional. Their parliamentary maneuvering prevented Republican enactment in the House during waning hours of the special session Thursday.

Further delay was attempted during a "skeleton" session of the legislature held by officers Friday to clean up paper work left in the rush of members to get home the previous night.

House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, predicts that enactment will come at the Dec. 29 windup session despite continued Democratic opposition.

Cloud also has scheduled hearings by the House Rules Committee on a Democratic-opposed request for Congress to call a federal constitutional convention.

The move seeks to clear the way for state action on apportionment of one legislative house on factors in addition to equal population as decreed by the high court.

A similar Republican-sponsored ed resolution from the Council of State Governments went back to the Senate Rules Committee with out a floor vote in the special session.

Another proposal for annual legislative sessions and four-year terms for Ohio House members, like those of state senators, also went back to the committee where revival appears unlikely.

But Cloud, who wants the apportionment issue aired, called a hearing on the identical House resolution for 10:30 a.m. next Tuesday and possibly another hearing on Dec. 28, the day before the scheduled special session cleanup.

Cloud terms published accounts of the resolution misleading and wants to counteract them regardless of legislative action. He says the proposal envisions popular vote on the issue and inquires:

"What is wrong with asking people to vote on a proposed change in the U. S. Constitution?"

Minor Defects Often Have Major Effect, Doctor Says

APPEALING but withdrawn before plastic surgery (at left), Chuck Burger, 7, Kansas City, Mo., now crows that "the kids in the block don't call me 'rabbit ears' anymore." Surgery on his ears was performed at March of Dimes Birth Defects Center.

Big ears and misshapen noses have long been treated as amusing targets of low comedy. Often the people behind the defective features join in the laughter more heartily than anyone else. Now doctors wonder if it's such a laughing matter.

"Doctors are beginning to suspect that many so-called minor defects may be as crippling to emotional and mental development as a gross deformity is to physical growth," says Dr. Virginia Apgar, director of the division of congenital malformations of The National Foundation of March of Dimes.

"In the 50 March of Dimes birth defects centers that have been opened across the nation in the last several years, we have seen an increasing number of these problems."

As an example, Dr. Apgar described a little Nebraska girl born with an ugly mass of hair extending from right shoulder to forearm. The rare defect — actually a huge birthmark — didn't prevent normal use of the arm. But it was so disfiguring that it aroused other children's taunts. By the age of four, the pretty child had withdrawn into a shell, worrying her parents and inciting her six-year-old brother to fight youngsters who poked fun at his "hairy" sister.

According to the child's parents, no one gave them any hope of improving their daughter's appearance until they took her to the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center at Children's Memorial Hospital in Omaha. Plastic surgeons removed the hairy surface and replaced it with skin grafts. Physicians believe that by the time the girl reaches high school, she'll scarcely remember which arm showed the upsetting quirk of nature.

In the vanguard of medical researchers studying deformity and accompanying psychological problems is a group at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

Dr. Milton Edgerton, professor of plastic surgery there, says studies show that children with deformities, even minor ones, often feel "apart from the human race," early in life. He advocates correction of the deformity at an early age, where possible.

"We all know children or adults who have somehow learned outwardly to adapt to defects. We tend to think that there is no problem and to disregard the tremendous human aching to be like everyone else, at least to the degree of not feeling deformed," Dr. Edgerton says.

Dr. Eugene Meyer, associate professor of psychiatry and medicine at Johns Hopkins is convinced that in 99 cases out of 100 a sense of deformity, however minor, stunts and cripples not only a child's self-esteem but his relationships with others.

The Baltimore group is concerned with prevailing attitudes of disdain and amusement toward what is popularly known as "cosmetic surgery." Jokes and sly references to "nose jobs" and other cosmetic surgery indicate an underlying feeling that such procedures are prompted by vanity.

In psychiatric terms, Dr. Meyer traces prejudiced attitudes to the Puritan idea that "the Lord made you this way and you shouldn't tamper with it."

"We've seen changes which are hard to believe in terms of people being freed from a sense of deformity for much greater interest in the various tasks of life," Dr. Meyer asserts. "The surgery doesn't put good spirit or productivity into a person, but it does remove blocks to its expression."

Your Income Tax

Minimum Standard Method
Available as Alternative

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one of a series of 11 articles prepared by the Internal Revenue Service designed to explain important changes in Federal Income Tax laws brought about by the Revenue Act of 1964. Although taxpayers are aware of the tax cut in 1964, they may not be familiar with many other changes that will affect Federal Income Tax Returns they will file after Jan. 1, 1965. Taxpayers are urged to clip and save these articles as reference material.

A new minimum standard deduction is provided by the Revenue Act of 1964 and may be used as an alternative to the regular 10 per cent standard deduction by those taxpayers who do not itemize deductions on their Federal tax returns. Either this new minimum deduction or the regular 10 per cent standard deduction may be used by the taxpayer depending on which will give him the greatest tax "break."

The new minimum standard deduction for all taxpayers other than married individuals filing separate returns is $200 plus $100 for each exemption allowable to the taxpayer. In the case of a separate return filed by a married taxpayer, the minimum standard deduction is $100 plus $100 for each allowable exemption.

This article tells about allowable, non-itemized deductions and not the allowable exemption of $600 which each taxpayer is still authorized for himself and for each of his dependents. However, the minimum standard deduction, like the 10 per cent standard deduction, may not exceed $1,000 for joint returns of single individuals, or $500 for separate returns of married individuals.

As an example of how the new minimum standard deduction can work to a taxpayer's advantage, take the following hypothetical case: A couple with four children file a joint return for 1964 showing adjusted gross income of $7,000. If they do not itemize their deductions, their minimum standard deduction would be $800 ($200 plus an additional $100 for each of their six exemptions). The regular 10 per cent standard deduction would allow them $700. By using the new minimum standard deduction technique they have gained an additional $100 to be deducted from their taxable income.

As mentioned, there are cases where it is to the taxpayer's advantage, if he does not itemize his deductions, to continue to use the regular 10 per cent standard deduction. Take the case just cited. If the couple's adjusted gross income for 1964 is $10,

A "FIRST"—Pvt. Albert Logan, 37, the first American soldier to be tried by a West German court on murder charges, stands in dock in Munich. The prosecution argues that Logan, of Gore, Okla., fatally shot a taxi driver "out of unnatural lust to wipe out a human being."

his deductions, a minimum standard deduction of $300 ($200 plus $100 for one allowable exemption) plus his personal exemption of $600 reduces his taxable income to zero.

Another example: A married couple with three dependents and having an adjusted income of $3700 for 1964 will pay no tax since, by filing a joint return and not itemizing, they can use a minimum standard deduction of $700 ($200 plus $500 for five exemptions) plus $3,000 for their personal exemptions, to reduce their tax liability to zero.

Although taxpayers may use either the new minimum standard deduction on the regular 10 per cent standard deduction whichever will give them the greater deduction, married taxpayers, filing separately, must remember to be uniform in their election of the method to be used. Both husband and wife, if they file separately, must use the same method — one cannot use the 10 per cent regular standard deduction while the other uses the new minimum standard deduction.

It might be noted that, generally, the optional tax tables governing the separate returns of married taxpayers are arranged so that the taxpayer with adjusted gross income of less than $2,000 will have a slightly lower tax when the minimum standard deduction is used. For adjusted gross income of $2,000 or more, however, the 10 per cent standard deduction table will produce the lower tax.

The new minimum standard deduction is available whether or not the taxpayer computes his own tax or uses the optional tax tables. A taxpayer who files on Form 1040A and elects to let Internal Revenue compute his tax will be allowed the minimum standard deduction (if in excess of the 10 per cent standard deduction) except in cases where the taxpayer is a married person filing a separate return.

In anticipation that many taxpayers will choose the new minimum standard deduction, the revised Form 1040 to be used with 1964 tax returns, has features providing for entries by those using the new provision. The Form 1040 instruction sheet will also have "optional tax tables" showing the amount of tax under either the 10 per cent standard deduction or the new minimum standard deduction for taxpayers with taxable income up to $5,000.

Viking Cagers Tame Panthers In 76-70 Contest

The Teays Valley Vikings continued their mastery of South Central Ohio League basketball teams Saturday when they invaded the lair of the Miami Trace Panthers and gained a 76-70 win.

The Vikings turned in one of their better performances of the year. They used a revamped lineup with the return of veteran forward Mitch Clay.

Coach Russ Gregg started Clay and Dave Roese, a 6-1 195-pound senior at forward

Roese has been playing guard for the Vikings.

Rounding out the starting front line was Bill Fortner, although he spent much of the game on the bench suffering from severe foot blisters. He also ran into early foul trouble.

AT GUARDS it was the veteran Doug Mallory and Gerald Green, a junior, who Gregg started at forward earlier this year. And the switch in the starting positions paid off in a more balanced scoring attack.

Roese paced the Vikings, hitting on a corner jump shot or driving when pressed too closely, with 23 points. He canned 10 field goals and three charity tosses.

From the guard post Mallory swished 10 field goals for 20 markers. Fortner and Clay both scored 10 points. Green came through with an eight point effort — six of them at the charity stripe and Wilson tallied five in relief of Fortner.

Besides his 23-point effort, the rugged Roese pulled down 16 rebounds. Clay cleared the boards 12 times.

Green had 10 assists — a pass to a teammate in a successful scoring position — while Mallory had eight.

Playing their most error-free tilt, the TV cagers committed only four turnovers.

HIGH man for the Tracers was Dan Huffman who hit 10 field goals and one foul shot for 21. Tom Townsend scored 15 for the losers and Dave Bihl 13 markers.

The Teays Valley cagers now have a perfect 4-0 record which they will lay on the line Saturday in the Reynoldsburg Holiday tournament against Lakewood. Game time is 7:30 p. m.

The Miami Trace Panthers, South Central Ohio League Leaders with a 3-0 loop record, have lost all three games played against non-loop quintets.

In the reserve game, Ron Leatherwood paced the little Vikings to a thrilling 41-40 win.

Butkus Is Rated As Top Lineman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dick Butkus, the 6-foot-4, 250-pound linebacker from Illinois who won All-America honors for the second straight year, was named the outstanding lineman of the 1964 college football season in the annual Associated Press poll today.

The Illini star, recently signed by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, collected 53 votes in the balloting by 125 writers and broadcasters. Steve DeLong, All-America linebacker from Tennessee, was second with 13 votes, followed by Jack Snow, Notre Dame's stellar end, with nine.

Logan Elm Handed Defeat By Amanda-Clearcreek Aces

Logan Elm was defeated, 74-68 Saturday by host Amanda-Clearcreek in spite of a well balanced scoring attack.

Four of the Braves hit 12 points or more. But their defense could not contain the Aces whose entire starting five ended up in double figures.

Logan Elm's record for the season now stands at four wins and two losses. And in both losing efforts, the Braves have permitted the opposition to score better than 70 points. Centralia handed the Braves a 75-70 loss in the opening game of the season.

Jack Shaw once again headed Logan Elm attack, cashing in on six field goals and five charity tosses for a 17-point total. It was the high effort for the game.

JEFF LUTZ scored 13 markers, Russ Merrin 14 and Darryl Reichelderfer 12. Rounding out the LE offense were Don Schaaf, Jim Moorehead and Raymond Jones with two points each and Mike Spangler with six.

Leading scorer for the Aces was Gary Young, a sophomore guard who connected on seven field goals and two charity tosses for 16 points. Jerry Cole carded 15 markers, Mike LaBonte, 13, Phil Smith 11, Don Sharp 10 and Rick Williams 9.

From the field, Logan Elm outscored their opponents as they hit 27 of 65 attempts for a 42 per cent level. The Aces connected on 24 field goals, but took only 50 shots for a 48 per cent rate. However, the host school held a big edge at the foul line.

The Braves committed 21 personal fouls, giving their opponents 34 chances at the line. The Aces converted on 28 of the tries including 13 straight in the final quarter.

Amanda, on the other hand committed 13 personals to give the Braves 21 shots. They hit 14 of them.

The Logan Elm reserves won the preliminary tilt, 44-38.

The next game for Logan Elm is Dec. 28 when the team travels to Clarksburg.

Bremen Team Finally Held Below 100 in Teays League

Ashville IGA, Conner's Sports of Bremen, VFW and South Bloomfield posted wins yesterday in the Teays Valley Independent Cage league.

Mike Seymour and Chuck Miller teamed for 21 points each to lead the IGA attack over the Grove City quintet. High man for the losers was Mike Swetnam with 16 markers.

The IGA cagers led, 21-9, at the end of the first period, only to see the losers take a 37-35 halftime edge. Miller and Seymour sparked a 28-point second half effort for the winners, while Grove City cagers were held to 21.

For the first time in the TV League action, Conner's Sports was held to less than 100 points. But the team still earned a decisive 84-60 win over Barr's.

JERRY JACKSON'S 18 points led the winners as the ex-Ohio University star drilled six field goals and six charity tosses through the nets.

Sells of Barr's earned game scoring honors in a losing effort as he swished the nets for 10 field goals and four foul shots for 24 points. Conner's Sports is undefeated in six league games.

Paul Large scored 20 points as the VFW handed Circleville Merchants a 71-50 drubbing. Larry Beard contributed 16 markers to the Vets' offense. Dick Tucker scored 19 on seven field goals and five foul shots to lead the losers.

In the final game of the day, Bloomfield slipped past Circleville Metal in a close 61-58 contest.

Dan Hollenback and Jay Curry scored 15 points each for the winners, while Roese and Roof added 12 and 11 respectively. For the Metalmen, Lennie Hardman and Don Burger scored 15 each.

No action is scheduled Sunday in the independent cage league. On Jan. 3, Circleville Metal plays Grove City, Ashville IGA is pitted against the VFW, Circleville Merchants tangle with Conners Sports of Bremen and South Bloomfield meets Barr's.

FOR THE NFL TITLE—Two of the highest-scoring teams in NFL history will go against each other Sunday, December 27, in Cleveland's big stadium, when the Browns and the Colts tangle for the pro grid crown. The Colts finished with 428 points and the Browns totaled 415. Heading the cast for the Browns will be Lou Groza, the old place-kicking specialist, and Jim Brown, the great fullback. The Colts' big offensive guns are passer Johnny Unitas and back Lenny Moore.

Newark Defeated by CHS Matmen

The Circleville High School wrestling team handled visiting Newark by a 27-14 margin Saturday afternoon to pick up their second win of the season compared to a single loss.

The Tigers top three, Charlie Martin, Glenn Easterday and Jim Starkey remained undefeated. Ronnie Miller, a promising sophomore, picked up his second win in as many starts.

Martin, the CHS 127-pounder, earned the first pin for the Tigers in the meet, taking 5:35 to put Jack Bell's shoulders to the mat. Easterday, competing in the 133-pound class, decided Dave Bell, 12-4. Miller pinned Ron Wilson in three minutes while Starkey pinned Vern Albery in 5:08 in the heavyweight class.

"The boys wrestled real well," coach Dave LaBounty said. "With just a little more technique or effort, they could have won all the matches."

He pointed out that Mick Tomlinson, Circleville 175-pound

SOUTH-CENTRAL ELECTRIC

on the move

For the past few weeks we've been telling you about some of the physical aspects of South-Central — a company on the move. We've talked about our new IBM computer, our new maintenance equipment, our helicopter program.

But there's one priceless ingredient in progress that isn't measured in physical terms. And that's courtesy.

We deal with the public — more than 20,000 of you in an eleven-county area are our members-consumers. In every instance we believe that courtesy and helpfulness are our most important assets when working with you. Without courtesy, all of the benefits we've tried to bring to you, would fall short of our goal.

We hope you think so, too, and believe with us that courtesy is a part of progress.

Keep your eye on South-Central — it's on the move!

Miami Aims For Battle With Vandy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Most of Ohio's college basketball teams take a holiday respite this week but unbeaten Miami has an important engagement coming up.
The Redskins, rolling along at a perfect 6-0 clip, journey to Nashville for a clash with rugged Vanderbilt Tuesday.
Coach Dick Shriders' cagers, clearly the class of the Buckeye state, undoubtedly face a stiff hurdle since the Commodores seldom lose at home.
A victory probably would boost the Redskins into the nation's top ten category and conceivably could pave the way to Miami's greatest season ever.
In last Saturday's activity, Kent State, Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown pulled out victories but Xavier and Ohio State were among the losers.
The Buckeyes, opening a two-game road tour, suffered an 87-64 setback at the hands of Davidson, the power from North Carolina.
Big Fred Hetzel, Davidson's All-America candidate, scored 11 of his 28 points in the first three minutes of the second half and the Buckeyes were done. Dick Ricketts led Ohio with 16.
Kent State dropped in six free throws in the late going of an overtime session to outlast Xavier, 80-76. Fred Albrecht paced the Golden Flashes (2-2) with 24 points but Musketeer Steve Thomas led all scorers with 31. Xavier now has a 2-4 mark.
Dayton took third place in the Kentucky Invitational by beating West Virginia, 71-67. Ace Hank Finkel, the 6-11 point-maker, fired in 29 including the go-ahead and decisive layup.
Cincinnati got 21 and 21 points, respectively, from Don Rolfe and Roland West but had trouble before disposing of Centenary, 84-74. The Bearcats show a 4-1 record.
In others, late heroics resulted in some thrilling windups. Youngstown nipped Wooster, 53-51; on Joe Lavolpa's tap-in at the buzzer; Dean Nicholson's last second goal gave Mount Union a 71-69 victory over previously unbeaten Hiram and with it the Mount Union invitational title, and 6-8 Bob Aston fired in 24 points and garnered 18 rebounds as Toledo shaded The Citadel, 82-78.
Elsewhere, Ron Duncan, making his first start, hauled in 20 rebounds and played a stellar defensive game in Wittenberg's 82-68 win over Marietta; Otterbein took the Lima holiday

Tulsa Trips Ole Miss in Bluebonnet

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jerry Rhone and an unexpectedly tough Tulsa defense exploded Mississippi's favored spot in the Bluebonnet Bowl.
But the 14-7 Tulsa victory led to some sharp criticism of the Ole Miss Rebels.
While the passing whiz wiped out Mississippi — which had been an 11-point favorite — Rebel Coach Johnny Vaught's post-game actions ired sports writers.
Vaught, a Texas Christian University graduate and long a favorite among Texas football fans, initially was upset by two late fourth-quarter rulings by the officials.
Then he apparently was ired at having lost the game, the eighth consecutive bowl game for the Rebels.
In his Monday column, Houston Post Sports Editor Mickey Herskovitz described the Bluebonnet Bowl a perfect one except for Ole Miss manners.
"At Mississippi football is played for blood and money, and they don't let you forget it," Herskovitz wrote.
"Ole Miss came to Houston aware that it had just two obligations to the Bluebonnet Bowl. To have 11 bodies on the field at 2:30 Saturday and to send someone around after the game to the cashier's window to pick up their check."

Browns Plan No Extensive Change

CLEVELAND (AP) — After viewing films of games of the Baltimore Colts, coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns says his club contemplates no extensive changes in preparing for the National Football League championship game Sunday.
Collier won't say what his strategy plans are, however.
The coach watched the films Sunday, and planned to see more today.
Collier says there are no injuries troubling any of his players. Five of the Colts, however, missed a couple of days last week, although none had a serious ailment.
Joe Sparma, who starred in baseball and football at Ohio State, is a first-year pitcher on the Detroit Tiger roster.
cage tourney by wallowing Ohio Northern, 85-59 while in consolation play, Muskingum, behind Fred Vollrath's 21 points and 30 rebounds, socked Heidelberg, 84-52.

Data Indicate Buffalo Win

But San Diego '11' Eyes AFL Title, Too

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The hard facts from the statistics sheets and a quick review of recent history would point to a Buffalo victory over San Diego next Saturday in the American Football League's title game.
But it's those pesky, unpredictable intangibles that have a way of turning things around and make it impossible to answer these questions until Saturday afternoon in Buffalo:
Will Buffalo's momentum, plus the lift of the Eastern Division — clinching 24-14 decision over Boston Sunday be enough to carry the Bills to their first title in the five-year history of the league?
Or will defending champion San Diego be able to shake off the disturbing effect of two straight losses, including a 21-20 upset at the hands of Oakland, and nail down a second straight title?
San Diego Coach Sid Gilman tends to discount the intangible and stick to hard facts.
"We played Buffalo two times and they beat us two times," he said after Sunday's unpleasant surprise by Oakland. "In the first game we didn't have any of our big guns and took a good beating. The second time we had them all, but we lost because we gave the game away."
"We'll try to contain Cookie Gilchrist the best we know how. If we don't, they'll beat us."
Buffalo won both regular-season meetings between the two contenders, 30-3 and 27-24. Buffalo has a 12-2 record, San Diego 8-5-1.
In addition to the key games involving Buffalo and San Diego, the other regular-season finals saw Kansas City clip New York 24-7 and Houston beat Denver 34-14.

Gibson Named New BG Football Coach

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Robert M. Gibson, Bowling Green State University's line coach for the past nine years, was named today as the school's new head football coach succeeding Doyt Perry.
The announcement on the appointment came from university President William T. Jerome III, and followed last week's announcement naming Perry as athletic director to succeed Harold Anderson who is retiring from the university next August.

Indoor Grid Tilt Called 'Fantastic'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Liberty Bowl is here because it got too cold there.
"Here" is this south Jersey coastal resort, scene of Saturday's sixth annual Liberty Bowl, college football's first indoor bowl game.
"There" is — or rather was — Philadelphia, where the bowl spent its first five years and no matter how hot the action was on the field things were always cold, cold, cold.
It was cold in Atlantic City, too — 31 degrees to be precise — but it was a comfortable 60 inside cavernous Convention Hall as Utah thrashed West Virginia 32-6.
"Artistically, everything was perfect," said promoter A. F. (Bud) Dudley. "And we came out all right financially, too, thanks to television and a group of private individuals who underwrote the game for $25,000."
"We'll go there next year and, I hope, for many years to come," he promised.
Dudley had hoped for a crowd of 7,000-8,000 but only 6,059 showed up. Lack of a local television blackout helped hold down the attendance, along with the drain put on the city's publicity fund by the Democratic National Convention in August.

Findlay Native Shuns Return Visit to Congo

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—James Stauffer likes the climate in Stanleyville, The Congo.

"It's a beautiful city—but I never want to go back," the 31-year-old Findlay native said.

Stauffer recalled, "Dr. Carlson told me once that playing cards with us helped get his mind off the trouble."

This is one of the things the former radio operator in the U. S. Consulate in Stanleyville remembered about his days of imprisonment with the missionary physician, Dr. Paul Carlson. Dr. Carlson was killed by Congolese rebels following the Belgian paratrooper rescue operations Nov. 24.

The Torrence, Calif., missionary received worldwide attention when his life was used to negotiate for rebel demands with the Congolese government of Moise Tshombe.

"They were looking for a scapegoat and he was it," Stauffer said.

"Dr. Carlson wasn't singled out to be killed by the rebels that day. There was just a lot of confusion and shooting."

Stauffer has been a communications assistant in the State Department's foreign service since 1957. His Congo assignment was completed last Aug. 2, just two days before the rebels captured Stanleyville.

"At first we (the five members of the consul staff) were held captive in the consulate for about two weeks or 10 days," he said. "But in the beginning we were treated fairly well."

The men were moved a dozen times after that.

"We were all roughed up," he said. "Many, many times I felt we weren't going to get out alive, but you had to hold out hope to keep from going off your rocker."

On one occasion, the consul staff was taken outside to the lawn, struck about 20 times with rifle butts, bayonets, sticks and machetes and made to eat the American flag.

"Whenever they moved us we knew if it were going to be good or bad by the way the guards treated us," Stauffer said. "Our treatment depended pretty much on who was in command in Stanleyville at the time."

Stauffer recalled that they were treated well by the rebel soldiers guarding them, except when they had been drinking or there was a change of command. On these occasions things got rough, he said.

He said frequent moves from consulate to prison, to nearby apartments and back to prison were due not to any deception on the part of the rebels, but only to confusion.

"There were just too many chiefs in this operation," he remarked.

Widower, 3 Sons Killed As Blast, Fire Hit Home

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP) — One thing 32-year-old Robert A. Church promised his wife before she died of cancer in 1961 was that he would raise their three sons the way she would have.

"He was a wonderful father," said a housekeeper who cooked for the boys ranging in age from six to 13. "He tried harder than ever to give the boys the love and care they needed after their mother died."

Early Sunday a house near Tiffin became what a neighbor woman called "a ball of fire," trapping and killing the young widower and his three sons — Robert D. 13, Michael, 8, and Jeffrey, 6.

Mrs. Grace Miller, 53, who lives two houses away from the fire scene in Hopewell Township, said she heard a blast at 3:30 a.m. She looked out the window and saw the two-story frame house belonging to Church in flames.

"It was an inferno and flames were leaping all over the place," recalled Andrew Clouse, fire chief in Bascom. He arrived 10 minutes after he got the alarm.

"There wasn't anything we could do but water it down. It was so horrible knowing that you couldn't do anything for those we were told were inside."

Clouse said a gas furnace in the house may have caused the blast. He set the loss at $10,000 and was to continue his investigation today.

Church, a construction foreman, recently installed the furnace himself, and authorities later checked and approved his work, according to neighbors.

Miss Helen Jordan, 23-year-old housekeeper who lives two blocks away with her mother, last saw the boys and their father Friday. She would return to her home after Church returned from work.

"He was wonderful," Miss Jordan said in a choked voice. "He was never mean to them, was determined to raise them the best way he could—and was doing what he set out to do."

"He did everything for those boys that was humanly possible. He was a real gentleman and he showed the boys that he loved them just as their mother would have."

Each of the students will receive an honorable mention certificate for the academic achievement.

The students are David D. Sherertz, Karen S. Dum, Gloria J. Kiser, all of Teays Valley; Judith E. Short, Logan Elm; and William H. Knox and Jack E. Martin, both of Circleville High School.

Beauticians Earn Awards

Three young women from the Circleville area have been graduated with highest honors from Nationwide Beauty Academy in Columbus.

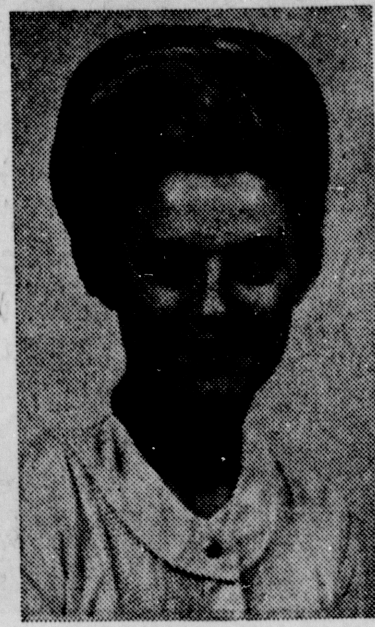

Judy Neal and Maxine Pennington, both of Circleville, and Diana Richard, Ashville, received the certificate of merit award which was presented to them during the graduation luncheon.

"It is unusual," commented L. G. Farber, registrar of the academy, "that three girls from the same area would receive awards since such a small number are awarded annually."

All three have passed their state board exams and are now licensed cosmetologists working in the Circleville area.
